

Ever since Corvette No. 00001 first met Corvette No. 00002 on the road, their drivers saluted each other with waves. There's one item of standard equipment that comes as a pleasant surprise to every new Corvette owner. It's the instant wave of recognition he receives from fellow Corvette drivers.

Soon, however, the new Vette owner anticipates, indeed even relishes, encountering other Vettes as he drives. He experiments with his waves, running the gamut from the gaping "yoo hoo" to the ultra-cool "two-finger flip." He perfects his timing, making sure he affects neither the too-eager, too-early wave, nor the jaded "oh brother" too-late variety. Determined not to be one upped, he even develops a defense mechanism for non-wavers, usually settling on the "Wave? My hand was just on the way to scratch my head" approach. (This is especially useful when you're not driving your Vette, but you forget, and like a dummy, wave anyway.)
